

Northwestern College, Iowa

NWCommons

Playbills

Images

1974

The Diary of Anne Frank, 1974

Unknown

Follow this and additional works at: <https://nwcommons.nwciowa.edu/theoraplaybills>

*The Northwestern College
Department of Music, Speech and Drama*

Presents

Dramatized By Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett

*Based Upon The Book
Anne Frank: Diary Of A Young Girl*

*April 4, 5, 6, 1974
8:00 P.M.*

The Aftermath

On August 4, 1944 the Franks, Van Daans and Mr. Dussel were routed out of their two-year hiding place by the Green Police, and were hauled off to various concentration camps.

Mrs. Frank gradually lost her mind, and near the end often hid bits of bread under her blanket to give to her husband. She died in January, 1945. Margot became increasingly frail, slipped into a coma, and in February died by falling out of bed. Anne became ill with typhus and died peacefully soon after Margot. Even at the end she felt that nothing bad was happening to her. Mr. Van Daan was gassed and his wife also died, though no details are known of her death. Peter was marched away by Hitler's troupes as they fled before the Russian invasion and was never heard of again. Mr. Dussel died in another camp. And Mr. Frank survived because, just by chance, he was in the hospital when Auschwitz was captured by the Russians.